ROMAN ARCHAEOLOGISTS INVADE BOURNES GREEN

Yesterday Roman soldiers marched into Bournes Green Junior School. When they arrived they captured a boy called Alex. They called him slave. They showed the children some Roman objects. They were looking for some new recruits. Their names were Marcus and Caius, a centurion and a soldier, and they trained the children to be Roman soldiers. Only 4 children were allowed to join the Roman Army. The 4 children were Harry, Sam Nunn, Abbie and Claudia. The 4 Roman soldiers made a tortoise and had missiles launched at them! Marcus and Caius showed the children a game called knuckle bones. The children couldn't do it but, the teachers could. Marcus and Caius showed them some fearsome weapons. Earlier when the children were in the hall Marcus and Caius showed them this other game. It was called Roman game. The easiest game of it that you can play is with 2 players but, you could play it with 3 or 300 players!
